

theWeather Club

theWeather Club

theWeather Club [1] is for a nation completely fascinated by the weather.

Go to theWeather Club website [1]

Run by the Royal Meteorological Society, a group of highly experienced meteorologists, the club provides a fantastic source of information about this most fascinating and topical of subjects, including:

- weather news [2]
- science feature articles [3]
- quarterly newsletter [4]

Being part of the club will allow you to be involved in a community of people for whom the weather is more than just something that happens outdoors, such as gardeners, walkers, outdoors sports enthusiasts, amateur meteorologists, or people who happen to have a close interest in the world around them.

You can sign-up for free to ensure receive the quarterly newsletter to your inbox at the start of each season. [1]

Resources

External links

- theWeather Club ^[5]

Source URL: <http://www.accsys.rmets.org/publications/journals/theweather-club>

Links

[1] <http://www.theweatherclub.org.uk/>

[2] <http://www.theweatherclub.org.uk/news>

[3] <http://www.theweatherclub.org.uk/features/category/science>

[4] <http://www.theweatherclub.org.uk/features/article/theweather-club-newsletters>

[5] <http://www.theweatherclub.org.uk>